The Treasure Chest is a quick and easy way for teachers to integrate technology into their classrooms with thousands of resources that are engaging, free, and standards-aligned. There are bi-weekly audio podcast on the site to highlight some of the best resources and give practical tech integration ideas. We encourage you to pass this information along to any K-12 math, science, social studies, and language arts teachers. There is for your convenience a flyer on the website that you can give to your staff:

Also, this is good information to share with parents since summer break is quickly approaching. Over the summer it is easy for children to forget knowledge and lose skills, and the Treasure Chest is a great way for students to stay sharp and prepare for the next year. There is for your convenience a flyer on the website that is specifically for parents:
